Girls Garage Workshop Slated

J&P Cycles®, Saturday, Sept. 26

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE –

ORMOND BEACH, FL. – There's a myth that girls don't like working on cars or motorcycles or getting dirty. Well, that's not the case with every girl!

J&P Cycles® is pleased to announce their inaugural Girls Garage Workshop on Saturday, Sept. 26, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Destination Daytona Super Store, located at 253 Destination Daytona Lane, Ormond Beach, Fl.

Started at the J&P Cycles® Headquarters in Iowa three years ago, the Girls Garage Workshop is a helpful resource that not only familiarizes women with the motorcycle, but goes even farther with maintenance information. Workshop instructors start the workshop at the front end of the motorcycle and work their way back.

The Girls Garage Workshop instructor follows a power point presentation showing the major parts of the motorcycle and their function with explanations of different types of frames, front ends, engine operation, primary drive, secondary drives, and rear suspension.

The purpose of the class is to give the ladies some knowledge of how a motorcycle works and the names of all the parts, so they get to know their motorcycle. Participants are invited to ask any and all questions they have.

The outline for the Girls Garage Workshop covers many topics. In addition to a complete bike overview, the class will review a "before you ride" checklist. General maintenance techniques are presented and changing and adding new accessories will be discussed.

"As more and more women become interested in not only motorcycling, but riding their own motorcycles, it was important to us to add a workshop that caters directly to the women," J&P President John Parham said. "We're looking forward to this workshop and working with a great group of ladies."
